

English 507:
Introduction to English Graduate Studies
Spring 2025

Professor Brandy Underwood
brandy.underwood@csun.edu

Course Description:

In “Introduction to English Graduate Studies,” we will discuss current trends, theories, and methodologies in literary studies. We will pay particular attention to the different research concentrations offered in CSUN’s English Department including: Literature, Rhetoric & Composition, and Creative Writing. Throughout the course, we will hear from guest speakers who will share their professional experiences and expertise. We will also spend time exploring the profession and possible career paths. In this course, you will begin to refine your skills as writers and scholars. You will also find new ways to enhance your research agenda.