

English 513CS: Composition Studies

Professor Irene Clark

SPRING 2024 Wednesday 4-6:45

Ticket # 20994

English 513 CS introduces students to major concepts in the field of Composition Studies and their application to college-level writing instruction. A key component of this course is the idea of connection: connection between composition theory and classroom practice, connection between writing and reading, connection between linguistic diversity and writing, connection between print and new media texts, connection between practice and reflection, and connection between students in the class. This will be a lively, interactive class! Students' perspectives and questions are welcome.

For students in all MA options
